Bangladesh was struck by the devastating cyclone SIDR on 15th of November 2007 and AILA on 25th May 2009 which created a massive destruction in the communities that it ripped through. Bangladesh counted its losses in billions in terms of human lives, material and livelihood.

Dwelling house represents the most visible and tangible damages associated with SIDR & AILA. According to GOB sources, the total number of houses damaged was about 1.8 million out of which about 39% were reported as fully damaged and 61% partially damaged. Approximately 4.8 million people, most of them were from the poorest of the poor, are in need of immediate life and livelihood saving assistance.

More than 2.3 million acres of cropland were reportedly badly damaged, the main crop damaged being rice. According to GOB, approximately 530,000 livestock animals were killed, the large majority believed to be cattle (a loss of household assets as well as a loss in terms of milk production). Food production has declined due to salinity, tidal surge and also they lost their boats, fishing nets etc. or to the unavailability of labor which was diverted to other critical activities like housing repair and reconstruction.

According to GOB figures more than 8,700 educational institutions were damaged, large numbers of educational material, including books and furniture were smashed and the few schools that could not remain open that experienced big drop in attendance. As a consequence of the above, the livelihoods of the people were severely affected.

Immediately after the SIDR & AILA, SMKK carried out massive relief and rescue operations in the Sidr areas. With the financial assistance of national and international donors, the organization responded in relief and rehabilitation activities in most remote areas. SMKK has undertaken different projects which includes; House construction, shelter repairing, water and sanitation, rehabilitation of Fisheries and prawn culture, seed and fertilizer distribution among the small and marginal farmers, distribution of vegetable seeds, distribution of milking cows and disbursement of interest free credit for restarting of income generation activities. The SIDR & AILA response services of SMKK covered at least 38 upazilas of Bagerhat, Pirojpur, Khulna, Barisal, Bhola, Barguna, Jhalakati, Patuakhali & Shatkhira districts.

SMKK also undertook programme on disaster preparedness and awareness programme aiming to face the challenges during the natural calamities. The organization intended to bring about the changes in the area and create self initiated programmes involving the community as it is obvious that the country is under threat of different calamities due to global climate change.

Under the financial support of JBIC & BARC through Training & Technology Transfer (TTT), the project implemented in the name of Agricultural Technology Transfer Project. The project was started in July 2008 and continued till the end of December 2010.

The project activities were implemented at Amtali upazila of Barguna district and Kawkhali upazila of Pirojpur district and total budget was BDT 532,000.00

Objectives of the project:

The overall objective of the project was to popularize the high yielding variety crops and find out the suitability cropping pattern in the soil condition of coastal area. Including others, the specific objectives of the project were;

- Transfer of improved Agricultural Technologies in the coastal areas
- Improve Yield per unit area
- Poverty reduction through farming of high value crops
- Introduction of high value crops for increasing agricultural production in coastal districts.
- Replace existing cropping pattern through induction of HYV crops and disseminated agricultural technologies.
- Increase farmer's skills and knowledge in using modern cultivation practices.

Activities Performed:

The project was implemented through participatory field based demonstrations in the farmer's field and tried to promote the technology in the community. Working closely with the local agriculture department, technical support and utilization of recommended inputs have given good result of the crops yield. Following activities were specifically performed to achieve the goal of the project.

- Established linkages with different actors of agriculture and maintain a close liaison with Upazila Agriculture Officer and his staff members assigned for project area for obtaining their cooperation and assistance for successful implementation of the project.
- Baseline survey for reference and selection of 75 farmers for each technology as per prescribed format given by ATTP-TTT
- Selection of potential resource poor farmers in the project through survey and individual contact.

Since the operation of the project, it reveals from the monitoring report that the utilization and repayment of the fund is highly satisfactory. Bangladesh Bank authority paid their support and expressed their satisfaction on the performance and given commitment for continuous support.

3. Micro Finance for Income Generation Activities and Rural Agricultural Credit Program

Reduction of vulnerability needs attention to generate self employment opportunity for the poor communities. It is beyond of imagination that without having the capital support, no one can start income generation activities. As a development organization, SMKK always trying to uphold the image of the organization and there is no exception for this year. The overall performance of the projects implemented during the year was found to be highly satisfactory. The project coordinator assigned for each project and the field team have shown their dedication in accomplishing their duties and tried to complete all planned activities within the time frame allowed for the project. SMKK keep special attention and strengthen monitoring of the field activities and shared lessons with the staff members and taken remedial actions.

SMKK is closely involved with the people living in the coastal areas and working with the people who struggling with natural calamities. Their problems, particularly in food insecurity and supply of drinking water need more attention for the development agencies. They need more support in increasing their self employment and capacity building for shocks that are facing by the communities.

SMKK has running with the support from different national and international development partners.
